COSTA RICA is an amazing place for a surf trip. Costa Rica is a well known and well developed surfing destination - especially since featuring in Endless Summer 2; direct flights from the USA also add to its popularity. The country is safe, beautiful, friendly and blessed with great surfing on both coasts. It is, however one of the more expensive countries in the central and south Americas, with the positive aspect that hotels are good quality and car rental relatively easy and safe.

The surfing can be broken into three main areas: The Pacific North (Guanacaste-Nicoya), the Pacific South (Punta Arenas) and the Caribbean. Surf towns are developing in places such as Jaco, Tamarindo and Puerto Viejo. Year round warm water, warm air and offshore breezes (in Guanacaste in Northern Costa Rica) make for great conditions. The best waves occur in the rainy season (northern Hemisphere ‘summer’) on the pacific side.

The 2006 Costa Surf Spot Guidebook in digital PDF format was created by a group of surfers that were unable to find enough detailed information online about where and what the major surfbreaks in Costa Rica were like. Please enjoy this surf spot guide and the included detailed surf maps.

GOOD TIDE: HIGH TIDE ONLY (YOU’LL HIT THE ROCKS AT ANY OTHER TIDE)
GOOD SWELL DIRECTION: WSW
GOOD WIND DIRECTION: E-SE

ACCESS: In the town of Tamarindo there is a dirt road that runs past Cala Luna Resort. Keep going south on this road for about 1-2km. Area was being developed with apartment buildings overlooking the break last time I was there.

#8 - PLAYA AVELLANAS:

TYPE: BEACH BREAK
QUALITY: OK AND FUN
EXPERIENCE: BEGINNER
CROWD: WEEKENDS SOMEWHAT, WEEKDAYS NO
DIRECTION: RIGHTS AND LEFTS
BOTTOM: SAND
GOOD TIDE: ANY GOOD SWELL DIRECTION: NORTH WEST OR WEST
GOOD WIND DIRECTION: E-SE

ACCESS: Playa Avellanas is about 10km south of Tamarindo. Avellona is an alternative to Playa Negra - being a less radical spot. At the southern end (in front of the parking) is a small rock platform which produces some OK lefts at mid to high tide. The main spot on the beach is the ‘rivermouth’ - which is not much more than a depression in the sand at the Northern End. A small rocky area here holds sand and produces a quality peak, with the right being the longer ride. The waves pick up fast on the ‘reef’ - but this is not in the same league as Playa Negra. Many people rate this as a better break than the more easily accessible Tamarindo rivermouth. ALSO CHECK OUT A SURF BREAK CALLED LITTLE HAWAII IN THE AREA.
#9 - PLAYA NEGRA:

QUALITY: EXCELLENT (HOLLOW, BARRELLING, AND POWERFUL)
EXPERIENCE: EXPERT LEVEL
CROWD: QUITE CROWDED
DIRECTION: RIGHTS
BOTTOM: SAND AND ROCK (WATCH OUT FOR URCHINS)
GOOD TIDE: MID TIDE
GOOD SWELL DIRECTION: NW OR W
GOOD WIND DIRECTION: SE

ACCESS: You can park your car at the Hotel Playa Negra. Sit outside over by the rocks for the best peak. The wave has two distinct sections that barrel. On smaller days, there is a left, but it's short and breaks over jagged rocks.

#10 - PLAYA JUNGUILLA:

QUALITY: GOOD (HOLLOW AND BARRELLING)
EXPERIENCE: INTERMEDIATE
CROWD: CROWDED
DIRECTION: RIGHTS
BOTTOM: SAND, ROCK, AND CORAL (WATCH OUT FOR URCHINS)
GOOD TIDE: MID AND RISING
GOOD SWELL DIRECTION: SW
GOOD WIND DIRECTION: NE

ACCESS: The surf break is south of tamarindo and north of nosara. Straight west of a little town called paraiso a beach break and a left reef that work better on higher tides. There are many peaks with hollow, fast rights and lefts. The waves jack up off the sandbar creating a tough entry. On a large enough swell, try surfing at Playa Blanca directly in front of the Iguana Azul which offers double overhead epic lefts.
#11 - PLAYA MARBELLA:

TYPE: BEACH BREAK
QUALITY: OK (OCCASIONALLY BARRELLING)
EXPERIENCE: INTERMEDIATE LEVEL
CROWD: CROWDED
BOTTOM: SAND
GOOD TIDE: MID AND RISING
GOOD SWELL DIRECTION:
GOOD WIND DIRECTION: NORTH EAST
ACCESS: On the road to Junquiyal, instead of stoping at junquilla continue and then you will find it.

#12 - PLAYA OSTINIONAL:

TYPE: BEACH BREAK (VERY CONSISTENT)
QUALITY: EXCELLENT (HOLLOW AND BARRELLING)
EXPERIENCE: INTERMEDIATE TO ADVANCED
CROWD: NOT CROWDED
BOTTOM: SAND AND ROCK
GOOD TIDE: MID AND RISING
GOOD SWELL DIRECTION: North West, West

QUALITY: FUN AND CONSISTENT
EXPERIENCE: BEGINNER LEVEL
CROWD: USUALLY EMPTY
BOTTOM: SAND
GOOD TIDE: ANY GOOD SWELL DIRECTION: ANY GOOD WIND DIRECTION: ANY

ACCESS: From Nosara village the break is 5 minutes south by car. From Nosara beach its a 5 minute walk. Nosara is a fun wave. Really forgiving. Can get big. Nearby spots like Ostinal are always bigger and more hollow. This wave really lends itself to the longboarders and bigginers as its a bit gutless.

#14 - PLAYA GUIONES:

TYPE: BEACH BREAK
QUALITY: EXCELLENT (HOLLOW AND BARRELLING)
CROWD: CAN BE CROWDED
DIRECTION: RIGHTS
BOTTOM: SAND
GOOD TIDE: ANY

Go about a mile until you see the ocean on your right over a cow pasture. Open the wooden gate and drive to beach. In the rainy season the river is usually too high to cross. GOOD WIND DIRECTION: NorthEast, East, SouthEast

ACCESS: 4kms south from Mal Pais (direction Cabo Blanco Reserve) take the first track on the right, it’s at the end of the road at the bar/camping Mar Azul. The Mal Pais beach breaks are usually better quality waves, but if you want a different wave, or are staying at Mar Azul and can’t be bothered to walk 20mins to Mal Pais.... Lastly, when you’re there: check out the big bommies (offshore reefs) out the back and to the south (in the next bay...) some radical looking spots start working as the swell picks up. DIRECTION: RIGHTS AND LEFTS

GOOD TIDE: ANY

GOOD WIND DIRECTION: SOUTH, SOUTH WEST

ACCESS: On the way to Jaco, instead of taking a right to go to Jaco, go directly like 8 miles, you will see a sign to enter Tivives, from there you take a left on a gravel road for like 4 miles. Ask permission to the guard to enter, just tell him you are going to surf.

The place, on a nice swell and with the right conditions, will give excellent surfing. The currents are killers so you will need to paddle for a while, even when sitting on the lineup. When it gets to big 10+ it tends to close out. Be careful with the powerful sets because they will for sure kick in with 5 or 6 big waves. If the surf is not that good you can cross the rivermouth and go to Mini Valor which has some nice hollow waves, sometimes perfect tubes.

GOOD WIND DIRECTION: E-SE

ACCESS: From Jaco go to Playa Hermosa, at the last building on the right (going south) turn onto the dirt track paralleling the beach. Four hundred meters down there is a really obvious tree (usually with a bunch of surfers hanging around). This spot is a continuation of Playa Hermosa, but has a slightly less ‘rough’ wave. It is a fast, hollow beach break which is one of the most consistent spots in the area. Often busy, but a big enough break to spread out the crowds. A fast technical wave, The Tree has been the site of competitions recently.

#31 - TULIN:

TYPE: BEACH BREAK

Keep heading down past Playa Hermosa about 5 miles away from Jaco. As soon as Hermosa ends, just look for a small dirt turn off to the beach at the south end of Hermosa. Follow the road past El mentro another good spot to check,(if this spot is going off then hurry your but to tulin), keep going past a old run down hotel and flower the road till it ends at a small cantina store.

CROWD: CAN GET VERY CROWDED WHEN ITS GOOD

DIRECTION: LEFTS

BOTTOM: SAND AND ROCK

GOOD TIDE: MID AND RISING

ACCESS: A very remote, but beautiful area. Everything is back to basic here. The wave, when it breaks is awesome, but expect a big crowd on this awesome left hander, and the ‘locals’ or longtime yankee expats living here are not all that much into sharing this break. It needs a very solid south swell before it wraps into the bay.

If Pavones is too crowded, try to find Zancudos. Don’t turn from the highway to pavones road follow straight to Zancudo beach instead. Its a good beach break.
GO SURF!
